Homeowners who are in default or facing foreclosure have options to prevent the loss of their homes.

The sooner action is taken, the more options are available.

Wright County Community Action (WCCA), a non-profit organization, offers confidential, professional foreclosure counseling at no charge.

WCCA counselors educate homeowners on available options, and, if applicable, will work with the lender to come to a reasonable solution to prevent foreclosure.

For more information, call Wright County Community Action at 320-963-6500.

Serving the community since 1965, Wright County Community Action offers Head Start, Women, Infants & Children (WIC), Women's Health, Weatherization, Energy Assistance, Home Repair, Home Buyer Training, Transitional Housing Services, Family Budgeting, Food & Clothing and Community Initiative programs.
